members of the local business community.

This year marked the event's 5th year, and due to the success of its previous installments, much excitement was building beforehand. Not surprisingly, the occasion lived up to all of the hype with not just impressive attendance, but a wide assortment of products involved in the auction, in addition to the delicacies provided by local merchants. However, it was the spirit of the community coming together to support the Chamber that was the greatest attraction of the evening.

"The Babylon Village Chamber of Commerce is an innovative and thriving organization that is deeply committed to the community," said McCaffrey. "Having annual events like this really brings everyone together to share ideas that will ultimately improve our quality of life."

Babylon Village has earned a solid reputation as a municipality that is very conducive to small businesses. With the diverse array of shops and restaurants, both residents and visitors can have an exciting day out anytime of the year. All of this and more is in large part thanks to the good work of the Chamber.
